EVIDENCE GATHERED BY POSTAL DEPARTMENT PUT INTO SENATE RECORD.

RADICAL REVOLT SEEN

J. W. W. Socialists, Anarchists, Found To Be United in Promoting Reign of Terror in This Country.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Washington, March 11.—Evidence gathered by the postoffice department and the department of justice showing a country wide radical propaganda urging overthrow of the United States government by violence and the setting up of Bolshevism, was put into the senate record today by Major J. W. W. Socialists, Anarchists, Found To Be United in Promoting Reign of Terror in This Country.

The documents included a memorandum submitted yesterday by Senator Lamar of the postoffice department, asserting that the J. W. W. Socialists and other radicals in this country had found a common cause for the first time in Bolshevism.

One of the department of justice exhibits was an anarchist poster which made its appearance recently throughout New England. It denounced the proposed alien radical registration law and said among other things: "Deportation will not stop the storm from reaching these shores. The storm is within and very soon will be in and annihilate you in blood and fire."

Another piece of propaganda declared "every strike is a small revolution and a dress rehearsal for the big one."

Such publications as The Liberator, the International Socialist Review, the Red Dawn and the Class Struggle were quoted from at some length by Senator Lamar in his report. The record-land bills said to have been distributed by the J. W. W. during the recent strike in Seattle were among the exhibits as were reports of a meeting in Washington, D. C., discussing photographs of Russian Bolsheviks published by the New York Times.

MODERN APARTMENTS WILL BE BUILT BY WILSON LANE AT ONCE

Wilson Lane announced this morning that he would construct two, six flat buildings in this city and that actual work on the first building would be started in the near future. The first building will be erected at the corner of South Jackson and Dodge streets and the second building will be constructed as soon as the first is finished.

"I intend to erect two six flat buildings, modern in every detail," said Mr. Lane, "and when finished I expect that they will be the equal of any apartment buildings in Wisconsin."

Each apartment will contain eight rooms according to Mr. Lane and will rent for $50 a month. Every modern convenience will be placed in the buildings and Mr. Lane hopes to have them completed before the summer is over.

Several other local men are planning on erecting apartment buildings according to rumors. One man is building into a five flat building, four apartment. Two other apartments will be erected in the third ward during the summer.

Mr. Lane is exceedingly optimistic concerning the growth of Janesville and says that although handicapped by the lack of material, he has contemplated the project for several weeks.

"I have a 66 foot frontage on South Jackson street," Mr. Lane said this morning, "and I intend to construct the buildings with the best material available. They will be built of brick."

City Attorney Roger Cunningham announced he would remodel his home at 299 South East street and convert the building into a five flat building. C. B. Valentine, architect, Milwaukee, arrived in the city this morning and is completing the plans for the remodeling of the building. Mr. Cunningham said it would be modern in every detail.

Another band of Spartacans clubbed two soldiers to death with the butts of their guns and killed a householder who attempted to interfere.

Newspapers Forbidden.
The independent socialist newspapers have been forbidden to appear. The government military commanders expect that it will take at least two days of steady fighting to break the Spartacan strongholds but also in combating the guerrilla tactics of the insurgents who, realizing that they eventually will be outnumbered by the troops in straight fighting, are separating into small bands and terrorizing districts which have been unmolested up to this time.

The Spartacan band last night took a machine gun into a house opposite the barracks of the guard regiment on Friedrichstrasse, and bombarded the barracks. Another machine gun was fired from the district and threw hand grenades into the courtyard of the building occupied by the semi-official Wolf Bureau.

Wife Provision of Income Tax Law is Extended

Chicago, March 11.—An important extension of the exemption provisions of the income tax law is contained in a ruling by Commissioner Roper, which will take effect today. It is that the exemption for wife and child covers the whole year 1918, even if the wife were wed or the child born on the last day of the year.

Julius Smietanka explained that while the ruling works a saving for men earning $2,000 a year who have married during 1918, it works against the wife who loses her exemption for the course of the year. For in the latter case, he said, even if the wife died on December 31, the widower should have to make his return as that of a single man for the entire year. This is equally true where a child dies, he says.

Provides 100,000 in German Army Pay.—The supreme war council adopted the military terms of German disarmament providing for an army of 100,000 men.

MILITARY GERMAN TO BE WIPED OUT; KAISER'S FATE IS ARCH CRIMINAL BRAND

Peace Terms Reduce Hun Army to 100,000 Men; Treaty to Be Ready by March 25; Decree Against Emperor to Be Part of Document.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Paris, Monday, March 10.—It will be the fate of Former Emperor Wilhelm to be branded for all time as an arch-criminal by the solemn declaration of all the nations assembled at the peace conference, to which even his own country may be called upon to subscribe. These terms provide for a sweeping reduction of the German military establishment down to 100,000 men with 4,000 officers, the army to be recruited by the voluntary system for the period of 12 years.

The effect of this is to limit Germany's military strength to less than the number of men Switzerland has in her army.

Munitions Limited.
Other provisions in the military terms limit the arms and munitions Germany may possess to a quantity sufficient for 6,000 men, and all the remainder must be delivered over or destroyed.

The German forts along the Rhine also must be destroyed. The imperial general staff is abolished as the result of reducing the force.

One of Premier Lloyd George's main purposes in substituting voluntary service for the conscription system was to have the way for the disappearance of the conscription system throughout Europe, thus ending the menace of large standing armies and their provocation to warfare.

Naval Terms Adopted.
The council has already adopted the naval terms of the treaty except for a few reserved provisions, which will be discussed tomorrow.

The proposed treaty has been made with the work of framing the peace treaty ensures the completion of the task by March 20.

The first rough draft will be in readiness when President Wilson arrives Thursday.

It is the present purpose of the peace conference to call the Germans to Versailles soon after March 20. The document then will be delivered to the German delegates and in case they are not prepared to sign at once they will be given the opportunity to return to Germany to consider and return for the formal signing at Versailles.

German Functions Restricted.
This plan obviates the necessity of holding sessions for debate and action as the council has decided to be conducted with the Germans to the delivery of the document and their return for its signature or such other action as they desire to take.

It is known definitely that Count von Bernstorff will not be one of the German delegates at Versailles.

The presence of Premier Lloyd George and the powers as a sort of steering committee to direct the course of the main work of the conference. The session this morning was attended by President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George and Colonel B. M. House, representing President Wilson.

Premier Orlando of Italy will join the conference at Versailles, and when President Wilson arrives it is expected that these conferences of the government heads gradually will take place of the council of the great powers.

"CHOOSEY KIDS" MEALS

"It's a 'choosey' lot of children for the most part and that accounts for a great deal of their undernourishment." The speaker was one of the directors of the recently organized "Nutritional Clinic" which is attracting considerable attention in Milwaukee. To be admitted to this Nutritional Clinic, a child must be ten or more pounds under normal weight for his size and age. After a thorough medical examination by a children's specialist a group of fifty has been selected who will be worked upon to see to what extent they can be brought to normal standards inside of four months.

"One little chap declines bread and butter, stating that he had never eaten them. Another said that he couldn't eat meat and potatoes. Obviously, these two need instructions more than they do drugs or other medical treatment. But the parents need attention more than do the children. I am reminded in this connection of the treatment of a prominent children's specialist who says that in most children's diseases it is the parents rather than the children who require the attention of the doctor."

Most children are naturally "choosy." If they are permitted to be so, they have natural taste for such vegetables as string beans, squash, turnips, and carrots. They get notional, too, for no reason worth considering they will turn against this or that particular food and be allowed to go uncorrected will show prejudices which are as unreasonable and unbalanced as the delusions of an insane person. I have in mind the case of a woman who comes sick at the mere thought of biting a grain of bread or cake.

Much of the backwardness of children in school and their feeble resistance to disease result from partial starvation. This is not confined to the poverty stricken by any means. Among the very poor, failure to expend the limited means upon the best foods is responsible for more starvation than actual want. Even with our present high prices, intelligence is needed more than raw food.

Nobody has more need of backbones than have parents. The eating habits of their children are worth fighting for patiently and persistently three times a day and three hundred and sixty-five days a year.

Radical Laws For Preservation Of Bird Life Urged To Save Game And Song Warblers

(BY JOHN D. O'HARA.)
A short time since there was formed in Janesville a branch of the society for the conservation of bird life, and think this is an opportune time to say a few words on that subject.

Our birds—both game and song—are diminishing yearly, more radical laws must be enacted to save them for the blessing and enjoyment of future generations.

The laws by which I would protect and increase bird life are somewhat radical, I admit, but something must be done regardless of the how. Some of the "sport hunters" and those members of "shooting clubs" and others having vantage points to shoot from, for they are vastly in the majority. The remedy is to demand that they prohibit the use of all decoys for the hunting of all game birds, and no blinds other than those which nature provides.

Elimination of Decoy is Remedy.
The elimination of the decoy is in my opinion the keystone of conservation, and will have to be enforced before many years, if we are to save, even a remnant. This one source would annually save more game birds than all the laws now in force, and would give every hunter an even chance, and would allow the birds to increase.

When the protection of song birds, with the laws now in force, we would have enacted a law for the licensing or killing of all cats. These sneaking night-prowling felids are partly responsible for the loss of song birds than any one thing during migration.

When the warblers come from the sunny south, weather conditions generally retard their flight, and as they flock to the low bushes and hedges, where they seek food and protection from the storm, makes them an easy prey for the cats. Thousands and thousands are thus killed every year because most people prefer to see this slaughter go on rather than part with her beloved "tubbies."

Would Stop Hunting With Dogs.
Still another law which ought to be of value is to stop the use of dogs for hunting, either birds or animals, and also the use of firearms. Many of the objections that farmers make in regard to hunting on their premises have been for this reason—the dogs.

Many of our game birds have now been exterminated, or the numbers so diminished that in a few years they will become extinct. The golden plover, which a score of years ago were seen in large flocks on our prairie.

have disappeared, except a few remnants. The Bartramian sand piper, likewise, has gone the same way. The days of the woodcock, which some years ago, sportsmen delighted to hunt, are about numbered; and I might mention many others that will be the thing of the past, like the passenger pigeon.

You may talk conservation until your teeth become loose and your jaws rattle, but if some radical laws are not enacted soon, for bird preservation, their days are about numbered.

Bird Sanctuaries.

Within the past few years, the United States Government realizing that some of the noblest game birds and animals would soon become exterminated by heartless hunters, have provided places where they can live and breed without fear of man. It has established game sanctuaries in National Parks, and also has made sanctuaries of a number of the breeding grounds of water-fowl. Some few states have established sanctuaries to save their big game.

Birds Worth Many Millions.
According to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, the annual loss to American farmers and fruit growers from the ravages of insects exceeds $700,000,000 every year and the greatest check to the increase of these harmful insects is our feathered friend, the bird.

Birds Save Food Supply.
If you would destroy the birds, the population would starve in a very short time. Despite the ingenuity of man, in devising poisons to destroy insects that feed on his crops, it remains as true today as before spraying was known that the most effective check to crop destroying pests, is abundant bird life.

Dandruff Soon Ruins The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't. It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all of your dandruff will be gone, and there are four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and face ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

Each New Day Brings a Better Maxwell

MOST anyone would think that after building 50,000 motor cars on one chassis plan that close on to perfection would be reached.

That is true in a large measure; but it happens to be only the point at which the Maxwell executives began.

They decided to keep on building Maxwells better and better as each new day went by.

The locomotive engineer drives his engine better every day. The banker who loans money does so with more and more judgment. The man at the forge—likewise.

This is the principle on which the Maxwell is built. It is not new in the business world. But it is sound.

And today, with 300,000 Maxwells built on this plan, anyone will readily understand—

Why a Maxwell runs on and on and never quits with age;

Why a Maxwell seldom turns in at a repair shop;

Why a Maxwell is so eagerly sought for in the second-hand market.

One of the last of more than 1000 improvements made since the first Maxwell was built is the appearance.

Let your eyes glance over this present day Maxwell and you'll think the price $200 more than we ask for it.

HELPING NATURE.

The extension division of the university offers the following:
"Nature is a miser; man a spendthrift. Nature has wisely put the elements of soil fertility not in what man eats, but in the by-products, in order that the soil may feed man without depleting itself.

"But man wastes.
"A thousand pounds of wheat flour contains just 3 pounds of phosphorus and potash; an equal amount of wheat bran, a by-product, contains 48 pounds. Feed 1,000 pounds of bran to a good farm animal and practically 39 pounds of phosphorus and potash will be returned to the farmer in manure, the by-product.

"Nature is a miser.
"Phosphorus and potash are the soil elements we must save. Nitrogen can be gathered from the air by clover or alfalfa but phosphorus and potash must be put back or our fields will be barren.

"The history of all farming has been largely the history of grain growing and the consequent shifting from one virgin soil to another. The stockman feeds his grain to live stock and thereby keeps all of the fertility on the farm. He aims to produce fat because he gets the highest price for fat, be it butter fat or pork fat or butcher hog. Fat contains no soil fertility.

"Crops feed live stock and live stock feeds the soil. Live stock farms produce the biggest crops. Live stock states have the greatest crop yields.
Live stock maintains and even increases soil fertility. All prosperity begins with the soil, so to have prosperity permanently soil fertility must be permanent. Live stock is the mainstay of the nation.

"Raise more live stock and better live stock. Keep up soil fertility; grow better crops; increase prosperity."

ONE GOOD MOVE.

After several months of delay, the industrial board of the department of commerce has decided that it is time to cut off excessive profits in industry and give the man who has to buy necessaries of life a chance.

"That is a step that could have been taken long ago. People will not endure their money freely as long as they think they are compelled to pay a higher price than is warranted. It affects everyone. The manufacturer cannot move his products if the retailer does not sell them. The consumer will not buy more than he needs as long as he thinks the prices are too high. He will not buy if his wages are threatened with a reduction. There is no question in the minds of those who have made a study of the problem but that wages will eventually be lowered, but it is pointed out that prices must be lowered first.

In making the announcement the board says: "As soon as a stable and wholesome medium of prices is achieved the cost of living will have been so far reduced as to create automatically reductions in the price of labor without interfering with American standards and ideals for the treatment and living conditions of labor; and thus the last inflating element will have been withdrawn from the prices.

"It is believed that industry will agree that the cost of living must be substantially reduced before labor wages can be asked to accept lower wages, and thus industry should stand the first shock of readjustment."

LET THEM PAY.

Since the announcement was made that the voters of Rock county will have an opportunity to say whether bonds will be issued for the construction of concrete roads, many discussions of the advantages of immediate action have been heard.

One of the objections usually made when the subject is brought up is that the interest on the bonds must be paid. One of the best arguments to combat this, and it is being used successfully wherever met, is that it is better to pay interest on bonds which will provide for a permanent highway system than to pay a much heavier tax, or sum, or interest, call it what you please, for the continual repairing of roads such as we now have in Rock county.

One objector declared that he did not believe in paying interest. One of the good roads boosters put it up to him this way: "Would you rather pay for repairing the roads each year out of your own pocket, or would you rather vote for the bonds and let your grandchildren, who will have more use for the highways than you, pay for them?"

The gentleman, who was well along in years, saw the point, and now he is a good roads booster.

Think that argument over. It's sensible.

FLAPDOODLE.

Chicago is recovering from the numbing effects of a murder trial in which all the flapdoodle at the command of principals, attorneys and newspapers was brought to bear.
"Bill" Bradley, man about town and 50-year-old suitor of 19-year-old Norma Cook, school girl, was stabbed by Norma's father, "Jack" Cook. Cook was found guilty of manslaughter after he admitted stabbing Bradley, although he alleged self-defense. He is seeking a new trial. Norma, because of the publicity she has obtained through the sensational manner in which the newspapers handled the story, already is casting eyes at a movie career. The mother of Norma has wasted many hungry lines of newspaper space in telling of her husband and the man who is her husband, and the father of her child.

Thousands of young girls have followed the sordid story through columns of breathless details. The effect upon them will be bad. The whole affair is sickening. If Norma Cook or any one else attempts to capitalize on the publicity of the tragedy by putting her before the public as a movie actress, the long-suffering public should put the stamp of disapproval on the effort in no uncertain terms.

ONE POINT SETTLED.

The United States supreme court has upheld the validity of the espionage act and through its decision has brought relief to the minds of real Americans in which there was more or less doubt as to whether the convictions of those who attempted to obstruct the progress of this nation in the war would stand. The constitutionality of the enlistment section of the act of 1917 was attacked by attorneys for Eugene V. Debs, socialist leader. Debs will have to serve 10 years in a federal prison.

Those who have been convicted under the act will no doubt make attacks on other sections, but the principle in the Debs case which was unanimous and might serve as an indication as to how others who are pinning their hopes on appeals will fare.

There is some encouragement in the report that Secretary of the Navy Daniels and some of his admirals are going to study the warships design in Europe. Perhaps in a few more years a decision will be made to take up the actual building of ships and then we may have a chance to reap the benefits of the millions that have been expended in experimenting—for instance at Hog Island.

Those who believe everything the administration does is right must be stunned by the announcement that Secretaries Baker and Daniels are going to follow President Wilson to Europe and leave the United States flat on its back, figuratively speaking.
Oh, well, we have Bullerion with us.

Washington county is coming to the front in the Better Bull campaign being waged in the state. At a recent sale at West Bend, 16 farmers added their names to the list of purchase owners.

Iowa is another state which is awakening to the advantages of a permanent highway system. It is planning a $50,000,000 highway system.

THEIR OPINIONS

Wondering.

ing whether he's to be saved from

Need More.
The Pan-Germans are talking now

Food for Thought.
To get mixed up with all of Europe's embroilments seems some like nursing a widow with a large family of quarrelsome children. Of course it may be all right in some cases, but anyway it furnishes food for thought both before and after.—Superior

Style Problems.
The tendency of the spring styles is such that one has to read carefully to find out whether a particular costume is intended for a mid-winter reception given in Milwaukee or a Palm Beach bathing suit for Florida.—Kenosha

The Only Way.

Representative government is the only possible way by means of which the people of a nation can be governed. When the representative of the people decide, the people decide. There is no other way in which it is feasible to get at the will of the people except through their duly elected representatives.—Wausau

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

DOUBT.
Upon this earth we walk about,
There's altogether too much doubt.
Men doubt the books upon their shelves
And doubt their neighbors and themselves.
They doubt the strength that they possess.
And doubt their fellow man's success.
They doubt the motives of a friend;
Doubt that the present will end.
Yet joy returns and truth exists
And sunshine clears away the mists.

This life appears to be a bout
With the unrelenting foe of doubt.
On every hand its troops are placed.
And everywhere its guns are faced.
Who yearns to reach a mountain peak,
The beauty of the world to seek,
Must overcome the doubt that's spread Like tangled weeds where we must tread.

Believing with a faith sublime
That he shall reach the top in time.
There is no sustenance in doubt;
No strength of heart or muscle
No courage for the hour of test;
Its fruit is tasteless at the best.
Its record is unfinished deeds
And creeds
And failures sad and goals un-gained.

And splendid victories unattained.
I have no future life of bliss,
And steals away the joy of this.

Believe in God, believe in man!
Put faith in everything you plan.
Believe you have the power to do What asks the day shall bring to you
And be so strong in faith that when You meet the common griefs of men
You may not bear with sorrow's pain.
Knowing that joy shall come again.
Live out your life with courage stout.

There is no manliness in doubt.

COUNCIL SETTLES SHERIDAN CASE

Phil Sheridan who was injured when his machine was wrecked by striking a pile of building material in the road at the corner of Cherry and School streets in 1915 was awarded damages amounting to $600 by the city council last evening after a spirited discussion.

Alderman Dulin opposed the move as he claimed that the city should not be held responsible for the accident and contended that M. Halverson was partly to blame for the accident.

All of the members of the council were in favor of settling with Mr. Sheridan and it was just a matter as to who was responsible that prevented its passage at first.

City Attorney Roger Cunningham was prepared to carry the case to court but it was deemed inadvisable by the council as the accident happened during a former city administration and details were not available.

Mr. Sheridan previously started suit against the city for damages amounting to $1,450.

FARM HELP IN COUNTY PREDICTED AS SCARCE

Farm help is going to be scarce this summer, according to indications at the U. S. Employment Service bureau here. The local office has on file 25 orders for farm help and but few men desire to take the jobs. Should the matter become serious, Manager Fred Schmitt states men will be brought in from Milwaukee, Madison and other places throughout the state where there is found to be an abundance of farm help.

Many farmers are taking advantage of the employment service and are leaving orders for workers. Those who need help should notify the service bureau at once in order to be assured of getting men. Should there be any men in the district desiring to work on farms they should register at once with the office, 122 East Milwaukee street. No fee is charged for this service either to the employer or to the employee, but the farmer is asked to pay the necessary expenses.

"A position on the farm at this time," said Mr. Schmitt this morning, "considering living conditions in the city, is as good a job as a man can wish for. For a job on a farm where a man is assured three square meals a day, the best of living conditions and good wages, is far better than any position in the city."

That Mortgage Must Be Paid!

Mortgages have the unfortunate habit of coming due. They have to be paid sometime. Are you getting ready to pay that one on your home—or are you just trusting to chance to have the money when it comes due? A wise plan would be to start a savings fund at the Rock County Savings & Trust Co. and keep depositing in it until you have enough money to pay the mortgage or at least reduce it when it is due.

A WOMAN'S BUSINESS

THE SPIRIT OF PROSPERITY.

It disturbed Walter to find that his wife had not yet got home. For all his talk and respect for it in the doing of others, it troubled him not to know where Janet was every moment of the time. Late hours and miscellaneous running about did not seem to him to be the proper thing for a woman to do. He followed his own path, and must to Janet follow hers—and trust her to choose a safe one.

That was just it—a safe one. As Walter lay sleepless in his bed, he knew what was the matter with Janet. The ever-present thought that along Janet's path also walked Roy Nicoll, relentlessly plying his velvet temptations. The worst of it was that Nicoll's efforts to get into Janet's life were all constructive. Nicoll offered her nothing that would have tempted the ordinary woman. He offered a world to conquer, and she conquered it. He was left to conquer his own world, unassisted. Well—he clenched his hands and grimly compressed his lips in the darkness—he would conquer it. He would conquer it over and over again. Walter fell asleep, to dream a jumble of wild victories over skeptical editors and play producers, with Janet, his love, his life, his world, his future, watching him in the audience as he shouted an "author's speech" from a gigantic stage.

Meanwhile Janet, speeding home, was in a mood of gathering up her wealthy friends at a fashionable residence uptown, was listening to words from Nicoll which were almost an echo of Lucy's to Walter at the Lafayette.

"Don't you see, Janet, that all you need is the proper environment?" Roy Nicoll was urging. "How you come tonight among those people? They are so proud of you, and of myself, for putting you in your rightful place."

"Oh, yes, it was wonderful, Roy," murmured Janet in an awed tone.

"I must be dreaming—R. up there at Miss Morgan's house actually telling those millionaires how to spend their money? But, Roy—don't you honestly think they listened to me because of you and your wealth and your position as owner of our magazine?"

"Certainly not, child!" said Nicoll emphatically. "They are only men and women."

These wealthy men and women. They know what they're about. Miss Loran never goes into financial schemes without getting due return. "Woman," grow from a 40,000 circulation paper to one of the leaders of feminist thought, one with big pulling power. And she knows the value of a real man. It's her ideas that have made us what we are in the periodical world. "In their way," he went on, "the rich folks in Miss Loran's train are highbrows. They are thoroughly abreast of the times and really want to do good in the world. They are the sort of people for you to know. They can help you. You stuck around with the set your husband runs with. I'm not knocking them, understand. They've got brains, even. But they're not willing to get in line with what the public wants. They're fanatics. And—and they haven't any money. You can't get anywhere without money."

This was always the climax of Nicoll's arguments. Keep in with the moneyed ones, and conform, conform! Give the public what it wants in the way of magazines. Don't be too radical. If your ideas are ahead of popular thought, tone them down. Don't be in too much of a hurry to make up popular thought. To make them slowly but surely is the best way.

His arguments contained much truth, and he knew how to present them. Janet was all the more successful and prosperous, and it was not difficult to find wisdom in all Roy Nicoll said forth. Nicoll was a huge success man. He had a very attractive one.

Since Janet had worked for him and with him, he had never once overstepped the boundaries of proper conduct toward her. It seemed to Janet he was too punctilious. She would have been angry at any liberty. Yet she felt a vague resentment that he seemed no longer interested in her self; only in her work.

Nicoll knew just when to revive the personal touch, however, and when he said good-night at the door of her house, he took her hands in a thrilling grip.

"Good night, little girl," he said, "little queen, rather, whose wisdom is deep—and whose subjects are deeper still!"

HOW FAR BACK CAN YOU REMEMBER?
Now far back do your conscious memories go? While she lets this latter be their experience. I wonder if it is not because our visualization of people is colored by an old habit, but the way they look today.

The woman who remembered so clearly how the little mother had died when she was three used to look back on subsequent pictures of a gray haired mother who was three, after a six month's illness, was sure that she could remember things that happened when she was not more than two, and a half, as her mental pictures of the mother—some at a dinner when her mother was something all white, and one when her mother stood at the foot of the stairs and called to her father to come back and hear about an errand she had forgotten to give him.

Do You Remember Feelings or Do You See Pictures?
Another interesting thing to examine is the character of your memories. Are your memories recollections of disembodied states of mind or are they pictures. I am one of these unfortunate people who do not visualize. I cannot call a familiar face to mind at will. I cannot recall just how a place looked unless when I memory do not memorize the thing as it looks on the page but go rather by sound. Hence my memories are of the disembodied spirit kind. For instance, one of my earliest memories is of my scorn, at the age of four or thereabouts, when my cousin aged two or more, cried because her mother left her alone in the room where they were visiting us. Yet I do not remember how my cousin or her mother looked.

When the Little Boy Next Door Went Again, I can almost feel the poignancy of my loneliness when the little boy next door who had always played with me went to school for the first time. I remember how young, younger, was left at home. And I remember how glad I was when he came back at noon. Yet I have no picture of him either going or returning.

What pictures I have are rather of places and objects than people. Several others of the group admitted that this latter was their experience. I wonder if it is not because our visualization of people is colored by an old habit, but the way they look today. The woman who remembered so clearly how the little mother had died when she was three used to look back on subsequent pictures of a gray haired mother who was three, after a six month's illness, was sure that she could remember things that happened when she was not more than two, and a half, as her mental pictures of the mother—some at a dinner when her mother was something all white, and one when her mother stood at the foot of the stairs and called to her father to come back and hear about an errand she had forgotten to give him.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

There are some women in this country who have seen more service at the front than any of our soldiers. Some have served as nurses, since the very outbreak of hostilities and then associated their efforts when the United States entered. Miss Elsie de Wolfe is one of the American women of whom we may well be proud. Miss de Wolfe is a woman of many talents, a decorator and interior decorator of note, has just received a cable from the French government announcing that she has been awarded the Croix de Guerre with a bronze star. The decoration is for bravery. During the week of March 21, 1918, Miss de Wolfe aided, under heavy bombardment, in the Ambroise hospital, when the Germans were marching on Compiègne.

Since 1914 she has been known as a charitable and a healing angel of the sick and wounded victims of the war. In 1915 she returned to this country to recuperate after her arduous work in France. Miss de Wolfe has been in France with Miss Anne Forgan in many of her philanthropic social endeavors. She was one of the four prominent society women who established the girls on the top of the Strand theater, New York.

She happened to be in France when the war broke out and turned over her handsome villa just outside Paris to the French Red Cross and from that time on she devoted her whole time to relief work.

IT SOUNDS SIMPLE.
Here's what a New York writer thinks, or says he thinks, about the problem of women in industry.

"Whether women are to be taken into the home, return to established fields of woman's work, or continue in occupations opened to them through war needs rests largely with the women themselves. The dove of peace bears no blue envelope when the women have taken men's into small-sized funnel. The whites will pass through into dish below and yolks will be left in the funnel. This is a great time-saver and separates perfectly.

A small potato if peeled and put into husband's tobacco jar will keep the mixture moist and ready for smoking without interfering with the flavor.

Tales of the Friendly Forest

"I'll be right over," answered the Circus Elephant when the two little rabbits asked him to mend their house, which had been broken in two by a tornado, and I told you in the last story. So Uncle Lucky hung up the telephone and went down to the front gate to wait for the elephant. And pretty soon he came tearing, along with a big carpenter's tool box on his back.

"Well, that was some cyclone," he said, looking at Uncle Lucky's broken house. "But I'll fix it in no time. It's just busted in two in the middle. I'll give you a new house, a big one, and then that great strong animal put his head against one side of the house and pushed and shoved until the two parts came together. And then he fixed the roof and nailed on the new window and put boards over the crack where the little house had split apart, and after that he painted it all over, and when he had finished that dear dear little house of Uncle Lucky's looked just as good as new.

Study Chair.
Under the seat of a new study chair is a drawer for books and papers, while a shelf for writing can be swung across the arms from one side.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Coloring Tea.
Tea is black or green, according to the method of preparation or manufacture. The coloring of Formosa and Foochow are prepared in a manner quite distinct from that followed in the preparation of either green or black teas.

And after that the elephant put his tools back in his trunk—made his tool box—and started to go away. "Stop, stop," cried Uncle Lucky. "I'll take you home in the Luckymobile." So he and Billy Bunny went over to the garage and brought out the Luckymobile, and then they got in and drove away to the elephant's house, where he got out. So the little rabbits said good-by and started off again. Well, they hadn't gone very far, maybe a mile, when, all of a sudden, just like that, they heard a voice say: "You'd better not try this place to pass. There's a panther hiding in the grass."

"Who are you?" asked Billy Bunny. But Uncle Lucky didn't say a word; but just the same, he stopped the Luckymobile with a dreadful lumpy. "I'm Robbie Redbreast," said the voice, "and I'm hiding in this tree because I don't want the panther to see me."

"Well, I don't want him to see me, either," said the old gentleman rabbit, and he turned the Luckymobile around and started to go away. But, oh dear me. He had waited just a little too long, for all this time that wicked panther had been creeping up closer and closer, and when he saw the two little rabbits driving away, he gave one great big tremendous jump and landed right in the middle of the back seat.

"Ha, ha," he said. "So you thought you'd get away, did you? And that cruel beast licked his lips with his long red tongue and grinned till all his teeth showed.

"I'll give you a bag full of Thrift Stamps if you'll please go away," said Billy Bunny. But the panther said, "No; I'd rather take you both. I'll give you a bag full of jolly pop-corn," said Uncle Lucky, "if you'll please get out."

"No, I won't," said the dreadful panther. And in the next story you shall hear how the little rabbits got away, for you don't suppose I'm going to let that dreadful panther eat them, do you?"

Heart and Home Problems

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two young ladies who have recently come into this community. We have been keeping company with two young men who went with two other girls for some time before we came. They still go with these girls, but not as much as they did. The girls get angry at them for coming to see us and they get after them for doing so.

We like them not very much. They tell us what the girls say to them about coming to see us. Do you think the men would tell us what the girls say if they cared very much for them?

What should we do about it?
T. AND T.

The men seem to be out for a good time and without serious intention toward either of you. When a man cares for a girl he is satisfied to go with her only and to give up other women.

The men should not tell you what the other girls say. Since they break their confidence with them, you may be sure that they do with you.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: We are two young girls. We are going to school with two boys and have fallen in love with them.

(1) Is it correct for us to correspond with them?

(2) Do you think it is right for us to talk to other boys when they ask us not to?

(3) How old should girls be before they begin going with boys?

THANKING YOU.

(1) Do not correspond with them. It would be foolish since you have the same school and talk together.

(2) Talk to other boys. You are too young to be in love. Regard boys as friends and not sweethearts. The two boys have no right to ask you to stop talking to others.

THANKING YOU.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am very much in love with a boy in this town whom my parents do not like. He and they won't let me go with him.

Please tell me what to do?

WOLVES OF THE SEA

BY RANDALL PARISH

I saw her clasping fingers convulsively grip the rail, and even at that distance, marked a sudden flame of color in her cheeks. "That was all her message to me, yet quite enough. Although we had never spoken, although our names were yet unknown, I was no criminal to her mind, no unrecog-nized prisoner beneath contempt, but a human being in whom she already felt a personal interest, and to whom she extended thought and sym-pathy. I continued entirely ignorant of the identity of the young woman. She remained in my memory, in my thoughts nameless, a dream rather than a reality. I did learn that the gay gallant was a wealthy Spaniard, supposedly of high birth, by name Sanchez, and at one time in the naval service, and likewise ascertained that the rotund planter was a certain Roger Fairfax of Saint Mary's in Maryland, homeward bound after a successful sale of his tobacco crop in London. It was during his visit to the great city that he had met Sanchez, and his praise of the colonies had induced the latter to essay a voyage to his com-pany to America. But strange enough no one so much as mentioned the girl in connection with either man.

CHAPTER III.

Dorothy Fairfax.

We were not far from two hundred miles east of the Cape. I had been closely confined to my bunk for two days with illness, but now, somewhat stronger, had been ordered to deck by the surgeon. The last batch of pris-oners, after their short hour of recre-ation, had been returned to the quar-ters below, but I was permitted to re-main alone undisturbed.

I was still standing there absorbed when a voice, soft-spoken and femi-nine, broke the silence.

"May I speak with you?"

I turned instantly, so thoroughly surprised my voice faltered as I gazed into the upturned face of the ques-tioner. She stood directly beside me, her head uncovered. Instantly my cap was off, and I was bowing courteously.

"Most certainly," with a quick side glance toward the guard, "but I am a prisoner."

"Of course I know that," in smiling confidence. "Only you see I am rather

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from drug-gists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very suc-cessful in overcoming these conditions. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-foot is soon realized. It stands the highest for its remark-able record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Com-panies, in a recent interview of the sub-ject, made the astonishing statement that one reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large ma-jority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on sale at all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention the Janesville Daily Gazette.

This Is Better Than Laxatives

One NR Tablet Each Night For A Week Will Correct Your Constipation and Make Constant Dosing Unneces-sary. Try It.

Poor digestion and assimilation mean a poorly nourished body and low vitality. Poor elimination means clogged bowels, fermentation of poi-sonous gases which are absorbed by the blood and carried through the body.

The result is weakness, headaches, dizziness, coated tongue, inactive liver, bilious attacks, loss of energy, nerv-ousness, poor appetite, impoverished blood, sallow complexion, pimples, skin disease, and often times serious ill-ness.

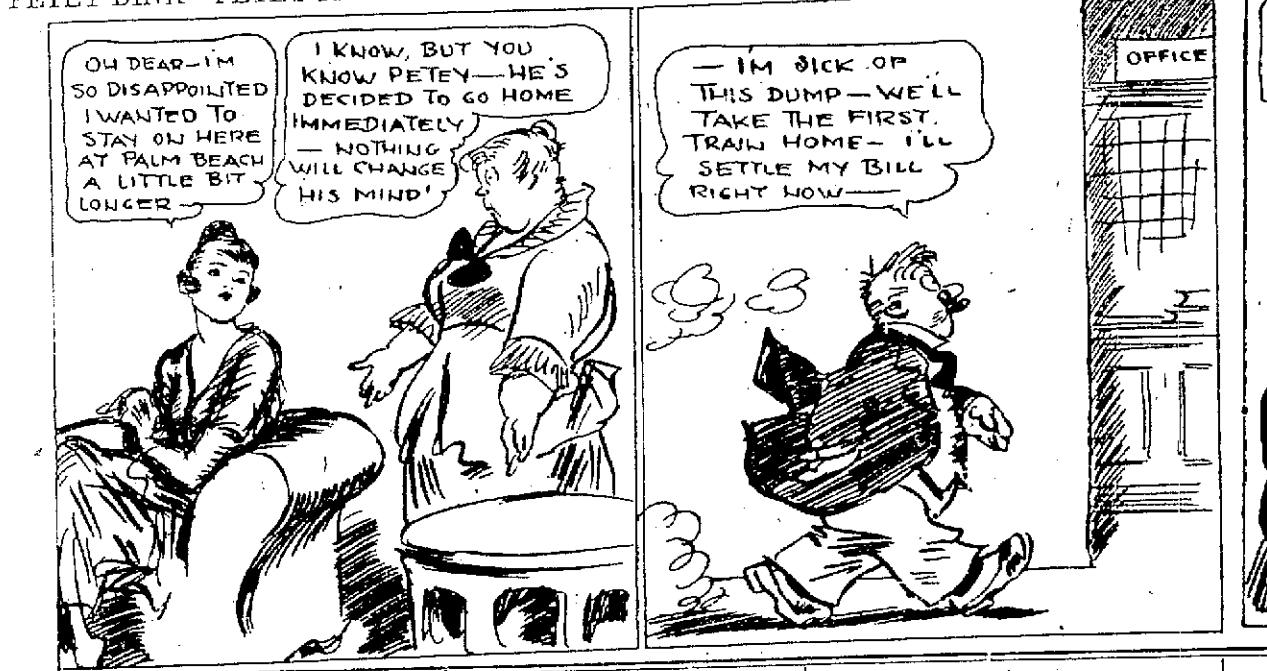

Ordinary laxatives, purges and cathartics—sulfate, oil, calomel and the like—may relieve for a few hours, but real, lasting benefit can only come through use of medicine that tones up and strengthens the digestive as well as the eliminative organs.

Get a box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one tablet each night for a week. Relief will follow the very first dose, but a few days will elapse before you feel and realize the fullest benefit. PETEY DINK—PETEY ISN'T MUCH ON ASTRONOMY, BUT ONE STAR CHANGED HIS PLANS.

a privileged character on board. Per-haps you may be punished if you talk with me—is that what you meant?"

"I am more than willing to assume the risk. I have made few friends for-ward, and am even bold enough to say that I have longed for a word with you ever since I first saw you aboard."

"Why especially with me?"

"Rather a hard question to answer at the very beginning," I smiled back at her. "Yet not so difficult as the one I shall ask you. I am only one of fifty prisoners, scarcely cleaner or more reputable looking than any of my mates. Yet surely you have not sought speech with these others? Then why especially with me?"

Even in the growing dusk I could mark a red flush mount into the clear cheeks at this insistent question, and for an instant her eyes wavered. But she possessed the courage of pride, and her hesitancy was short.

"You imagine I cannot answer. Oh, but I can; I know who you are; my uncle pointed you out to me; I am traveling home with him to Maryland. I am Dorothy Fairfax. He was pres-ent at your trial before Lord Jeffries. You are Geoffrey Carlyle, in command of the ship that brought Monmouth to England. I heard it all."

"All? What else, pray?"

Her eyes opened widely in sudden surprise and she clasped and unclasped her hands nervously.

"Do you really not know? Have you never been told what happened?"

"Only that I was roughly forbidden to speak, called every foul name the learned judge could think of, and then sentenced to twenty years penal serv-itude beyond seas." I answered soberly.

"Following that I was dragged from the dock, and flung into a cell. Was there anything else?"

"Why you should have known, Lord Jeffries sentenced you to death; the decree was signed, to be executed immediately. Then influence was brought to bear—some nobleman in Northumberland made direct appeal to the king. That was what angered Jeffries so."

"An appeal? For me? Good God! not Bucclough—was it he, the duke?"

"Yes; it was whispered about that the king was in his debt—some word of honor, and dare not refuse. The word of mercy came just in time, or-dering Jeffries to commute your sen-tence. At first he swore he'd hang you, king or no king, but his nerve failed. My uncle said he roared like a bull. This Bucclough; is he not your friend?"

I hesitated for an instant of indeci-sion, looking into her face, but the truth would not be denied.

"Scarcely that," I said soberly. "Nor can I solve entirely his purpose. He is my brother, and I am the next in line. We are not even on speaking terms; yet he is childless, and may feel some measure of dislike to have the family end in a hangman's knot. I can think of no other reason for his interference. I knew nothing of his action."

"I am glad it became my privilege to tell you. Besides, Captain Carlyle," simply, "it may also help you to un-derstand my interest. If you are of the Carlyles of Bucclough, how hap-pened it that you went to sea?"

the service by a mere boyish prank. His influence then would have saved me, but he refused to even read my letter of explanation. I dared not re-turn home in such disgrace, and conse-quently drifted into the merchant serv-ice. It is a story quickly told."

"Yet not so quickly lived."

"No, it meant many hard years, on all the oceans of the world. This is the first message reaching me from the old home."

"I have seen that home," she said quietly, "and shall never forget the impression it made on me. A beauti-ful place. I was there on a coaching party, the first summer I was in Eng-land. I was a mere girl then, and everything seemed wonderful. I have been away from Maryland now for three years. Nothing else would sat-isfy father. Maryland is only a colony, you know."

"Your home is at Saint Mary's?"

"Lower down the Potomac. Have you ever been there?"

"Twice; once as mate, and the last time as master of a ship. My latest voyage in these waters was made nearly two years ago."

"It is not so strange then, is it, that I should have felt interested in you?" she asked suddenly, as though justify-ing herself. "When Uncle Roger first told me who you were, and then ex-plained what had occurred at your trial, naturally you became to me something entirely different from the others. Were you actually with Mon-mouth?"

"In sympathy, yes; but I had no hand in the actual fighting. I was not even ashore until it was all over with. Still I shall pay my share of the bill."

"And you know what that means, do you not? What will happen when we reach Virginia?"

"Perfectly; I have no illusions. I have seen just such ships as this come in. We are to be advertised, and sold to the highest bidder. A week from now I shall probably be out in the tobacco fields, under the whip of an overseer, who will call me Jeff. All I can hope for is a kind-hearted master, and an early opportunity to escape."

"Oh, no!" and in her eagerness her hands actually clasped mine. "It is not going to be quite so bad as that. That is what I wanted to tell you. That is what gave me boldness to come across here to you tonight. It has all been arranged. You are not going to be sold on the block with those others. Uncle Roger has already contracted with the captain for your services. You are going north with us to Maryland."

I drew a deep breath, and in the sudden impulse of relief which swept over me my own fingers closed tightly about her hands.

"I owe this to you; I am sure I must owe this to you—tell me?"

Her eyes dropped, and in the dim light I could mark the heaving of her bosom as she caught her breath.

"Only—only the suggestion," she managed to say in a whisper. "He— he was glad of that. You see I—I knew he needed someone to take charge of his sloop, and—and so I brought you to his mind. So please don't thank me."

"I shall never cease to thank you," I returned warmly, consciously suddenly that I was holding her hands, and as instantly releasing them. "It will save me the degradation which I dreaded most of all—the toiling in the fields beside negro slaves, and the sting of the lash. Ay, it means even more."

I hesitated, instantly realizing that I must not utter those impetuous words leaping to my lips.

"More!" she exclaimed. "What more?"

"This," I went on, my thought shift-ing into a new channel. "A longer ser-vitude. Up to this moment my one dream has been to escape, but I must give that up now. You have placed me under obligations to serve. Be-tween us this has become a debt of honor."

"But wait," she said earnestly. "For I had even thought of that. I was sure you would feel that way—any gentleman would. Still there is a way out. You were sentenced as an in-dentured servant. I saw the entry my-self. It read: 'Geoffrey Carlyle, Master Mariner, indentured to the Colonies for the term of twenty years, unless sooner released; crime, high treason.' Any indentured man, under our Mar-land laws, can buy his freedom, after serving a certain proportion of his sentence. Did you not know that?"

I did know it, yet somehow had never connected the fact before with directly with my own case. God! what a relief! I stood up straight once more in the stature of a man. I hard-ly know what wild words I might have spoken had the opportunity been mine; but at that instant the figure of a man crossed the deck toward us, emerging from the open cabin door. Against the gleam of yellow light I recognized the trim form advancing, and as instantly stepped back into

"I Have Seen That Home."

"Largely necessity, and to some ex-tent no doubt sheer love of advan-ture. I was a younger son, with very little income. I always loved the sea, and at fourteen—to get out of his sight, I think I longed—was appren-ticed to the navy, but lost my grade in

SMUT AND BLIGHT WASTE MUCH GRAIN

Smuts and blight were responsible for the loss of over 4,000,000 bushels of Wisconsin grain last year according to figures just received by County Agent Acheson from the plant pathology of the department of agriculture of the university. More than 3,000,000 bushels of oats and $5,800 bushels of wheat were destroyed while the estimated loss from barley stripe was 915,000 bushels. The stripe was so widespread last year that field workers report nearly every barley field in the state infected.

Most of the loss from these plant diseases can be avoided by prevention. Once the disease is in the field there is no cure. The formaldehyde treatment controls stinking smut of wheat, covered and loose smut of oats, covered smut of barley and, with two hours' soaking, loose smut and stripe of barley.

The precautions which B. E. Vauz, agent and A. G. Johnson, directors of the campaign, give to farmers who treat the seed with formaldehyde to prevent smut, blight, and stripe are: "Run the seed through a good running mill before any treatment is given. The running mill removes many shriveled kernels and spore balls. Avoid freezing the wet grain after the treatment. Germination is lowered in the grain treated with formaldehyde and three-fourths bushel of oats more than usual when the grain is damp and swollen at sowing time."

ROY O'BORN.
The following letter was written by Roy O'Brien to his mother, Mrs. C. W. O'Brien, Railroad street.

"I was not so sick coming over on the boat and I hope I will not be sick going back. We left Camp Merritt Jan. 10 and took to the station. About 4 a. m. we got on the train and rode to Hoboken, N. J. We got there about 7 o'clock and from there we hiked down to the Hamburg and American boat docks. We got coffee and sandwiches from the Red Cross. We pulled out into New York harbor the next afternoon and stayed there until about dark Feb. 1, and then started across the pond. We saw only two boats besides our convoy all the way across. We were just 15 days crossing and were 19 days on the boat altogether. We stayed on the boat three days after we arrived at Brest. There were two troop transports, one freighter, a battleship, and after we got into the war zone we had eleven destroyers."

Victor P. Bleasdale.

Germans, Feb. 2, 1919.
"The reason I have not been getting any letters is due to the fact that I have been in the hospital for several months from wounds received in battle and injuries received in an accident but I came through alright and was placed in class 'A' and at present am back with my old company and all set for another year. I am located on the Rhine river near Coblenz, Germany and like conditions very well. It is a relief to get away from that terrible warfare we were carrying on. 'You cannot imagine what we went through in this war. In my division the second, which consisted of the fifth, sixth, eighth, ninth and 23rd Infantry and fourth, fifth, sixth Machine gun battalions we had over 24,000 men and officers killed and wounded and captured over 12,000 Germans, which is over a quarter captured by all the Americans in France. We also captured over a quarter of the cannon, so you can gain some idea of our fighting."

Victor P. Bleasdale.
EDBRIDGE G. FIELD.
Lieut. Eddridge G. Field who has been located at Brest, France, since Dec. 1, has written to his mother, Mrs. E. G. Field, of the good condition at Brest. The following is an extract from his letter:

Camp Pontehzen, Brest, France.

You have doubtless read a lot of the reports of the conditions at Brest, but I want to say right now that the people who are making them are doing it on the word of people who were here when the camp had not been in use as an embarkation camp for more than a few weeks and had not been made for that in the first place, and see this was a deliberate attempt to make a false report.

The first notice that anyone here had that it was to be used for sending back troops to the U. S. was in September, when they ordered them to start on the construction of buildings to be used for an embarkation camp. The work was started immediately, and if the work had not been done at so soon that the work was just fairly under way when the troops started pouring back through here, and as a result, the conditions were not at all what you have read about.

The first men to be sent through were the casuals, wounded and sick, and the camp was not in shape to receive them with any sort of comfort. The tents were not floored, and the kitchens were not in a state of organization which would permit them to handle all these troops as easily as would have been the case had they been present here.

At the present time, there are completed over one thousand buildings. All the tents have floors in them and stoves with wood and coal close at hand. The kitchens are organized.

Young Man Comes Back

One of our young men sure has come to the front in short order and his friends are at a loss to understand his untiring energy and ability to work and get rested. He is like a new week before he seemed to be all run down and almost a nervous wreck.

Questioned by a close friend as to the cause of the sudden change, he said: "I sure was in bad shape and no one knew it better than I. I had our regiment was in the line in and my nerves shot to pieces with worry and sleepless nights. I was a wreck."

He said that he had been told that Phosphated Iron had done for him and he could not get a supply quick enough.

"That's the whole story, just Phosphated Iron. My poor tired overworked nerves just seemed to be Phosphated. The way they took hold of it, and saw what a relief it was like a new man. Could sleep at night, and get up in the morning feeling like a two-year-old. Believe me, I had become a little old."

"You can bet I am strong for Phosphated Iron. Everyone who tries it is a booster."

Easy to Make This Pine Cough Remedy.

Thousands of families swear by its prompt results. Inexpensive, easy to make and saves about $2.

You know that pine is used in nearly all prescriptions and remedies for coughs. The reason is that pine contains several peculiar elements that have a remarkable effect in soothing and healing the membranes of the throat and chest. Pine is famous for this purpose.

Pine cough syrups are combinations of pine and syrup. The "syrup" part is usually pine in granulated sugar syrup.

We made the best pine cough remedy that money can buy, put 2½ ounces of Pine in a pint bottle, and fill up with home-made sugar syrup. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup.

Either way, you make a full pint—more than you can buy ready-made for three times the money. It is pure, good and very pleasant—children take it eagerly.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. The cough may be dry, hoarse and tight, or may be persistently loose, from the formation of phlegm. The cause is the same—inflamed membranes—and this Pine and Syrup combination will stop it—usually in 24 hours or less.

Did you get bronchitis, asthma, hoarseness, or any ordinary throat ailment. Pine is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and is famous the world over for its prompt effect upon coughs.

Beware of substitutes. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pine" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pine Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

BADGERS LOSE TO IOWA IN EXC. NG BATTLE, 29 TO 27

Big Ten Standing	Won	Lost	Pct.
Minnesota	10	0	1.000
Chicago	10	2	.833
Northwestern	8	4	.667
Michigan	6	6	.500
Illinois	6	7	.467
Purdue	4	7	.364
Iowa	4	7	.364
Wisconsin	3	8	.273
Indiana	2	8	.200
Ohio State	1	8	.111

After defeating the one time conference champs two nights before, Wisconsin turned around last night and dropped a 29 to 27 game to Iowa at Iowa City. The most exciting game of the season on the Iowa floor. The Badgers led by half time 16 to 12 but the Hawkeyes came back strong and broke the 27 to 27 tie in the last 20 seconds of play. Knapp and Zuller dropped in three baskets apiece while McIntosh and the two guards each looped a couple.

The defeat shoves Wisconsin into eighth place in the Big Ten and gives Iowa a hold on sixth position, tied with Purdue.

Michigan strengthened its fourth position by defeating Illinois at the season for the Illini.

"Y" LACKS CONFIDENCE OF MEN, SAYS CAPTAIN

"The Y. M. C. A. has been a great boon to the soldiers but somehow it has failed to gain their confidence," writes Capt. Philip B. Whitehead from France to his father, John M. Whitehead. His letter follows: "I think that a great deal of criticism is unwarranted. I am somewhat at a loss to explain the general opposition to the association among the men. They do not hesitate to take what it offers. They crowd its auditoriums and recreation halls—then kick about it. No doubt a good many mistakes have been made. Money has been spent extravagantly in many cases. I have heard that money accountability has been pretty loose and there have been some instances of misappropriation. But under the circumstances I think the work has been done pretty well. "There is not much to write about. I am going on with my work as usual. The German Constitutional convention has assembled. I hope it will accomplish its work speedily and in a way satisfactory as far as possible to the German people. The sooner they get a stable government, expressive of the will of the people, the better the prospect for an early peace."

CAMP GRANT TAKE FIRST GAME OF MEET

With Hensath playing his usual fast game the Camp Grant team walked away from the Detroit players in the A. C. tournament at Chicago, yesterday to the tune of 48 to 15. Hensath garnered 11 baskets during the game and his playing was the sensation of the opening of the meet. As usual the I. A. C. got away big, and capped their first game from the Hamilton Reserves by the score of 27 to 23. Pefferd a new man with the I. A. C. and recently released from the navy secured 9 baskets during the engagement.

Seward Park entered the tournament as favorites and were eliminated in their first game against the Madison A. C. of New London, Wis. Seward Park has twice defeated the I. A. C. this season and were easily the favorites of the meet.

St. John's Military Academy, the only prep team entered in the meet walked away with their game from the independence Parks by the score of 32 to 8.

This afternoon at three o'clock the Lakota Cardinals played under the name of the Olympic Club will meet the Third Regiment team of Fort Sheridan. With the same team that defeated Beloit in this city last week the Olympics will enter the meet. It is unknown as if the odds runs true to form they should easily get away with their first game this afternoon.

EVANSVILLE HIGH HAS GREAT RECORD

Evansville high school's fast basketball quintet is winding up its 1919 season crowned with success. With a record of 9 victories and 2 defeats the team also landed second place at the Whitewater tournament, had three men named on the all star team, and carried off honors for having the best appearing team at the tourney. The men were also awarded prizes for being the cleanest players on the floor.

Tolles at center has been the individual star throughout the season. Orvidual star scored by his team he counted 75, of them. He established a great record for free throws dropping in 35 out of 46 chances. Evansville's opponents have run up a total of 232 points.

SPRACKLING NAMED ON ALL-TOURNEY FIVE

Capt. Sprackling of the local high school basketball five is given the left forward berth on the all-tournament team picked at the close of the Whitehead meet. On account of his all-around ability in every game he was considered one of the best forwards out of the ten teams at the tournament.

Three Evansville men are named on the all-star quintet: Tolles, center; Hubbard, right forward; and Baird, right guard. The other guard position was awarded to Dombush of Fort Atkinson.

These five men were picked as the best players at the tournament. Were it possible to form them into a basketball team they no doubt would prove an unbeatable combination. The team is picked each year and it is considered an unusual honor to be named.
